ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The journey of completing my thesis was one marked with a lot of insights- not only into my topic, but also into the process of research. Despite all the doubts, I feel like it was marked with a lot of learning. It is essential that I extend my gratitude to all the individuals who took this journey with me.

Most importantly, I would like to express my sincere thanks of gratitude to my guide, Dr. Kavyashree K. B. for her guidance and support and continued belief in my topic, even when I did not have any. I would like to extend my most sincere gratitude to Dr. Sebastian Padickaparambil, Head of Department of Clinical Psychology at Manipal Academy of Higher Education and the members of the staff who were a part of this process. I would also like to extend my thanks the IRC and IEC departments for their contributions and discussions that allowed me to strengthen various aspects of my study.

I would also like to acknowledge Dr. Dan P. McAdams of Northwestern University, Dr. Robyn Fivush and Mikayla Ell of Emory University, Dr. Elaine Reese of University of Otago, and Dr. Michael Berzonsky of SUNY, Cortland for their inputs to my methodology. I would also like to extend my most sincere gratitude to Mrs. Shubaharekha of St. Agnes College for the statistical consultancy and analysis.

This dissertation would not be complete without the help of my participants, who shared some of the deepest aspects of their life stories with me. I thank each and every one of them and hope that I have done right by their stories.

Last, I would like to thank my family and friends for their constant support and belief in me. Tanishka and Savitha who extended their encouragement and help whenever I felt flustered or needed clarity on my topic. And of course, the warmest regards and love to my brother Hugo, who sat beside me as I conceptualized this topic.

Shreya Shankar
